Voters of the Bark River-Harasked to approve a millage renewal in an election to be held

Ask Renewal

The Bark River - Harris Schools are currently collecting 3.5 mills for operating purposes, approved by the voters of the district in previous elections. Operating millage, however, is approved for only a set number of years, and must be renewed periodically.

The current operating millage expires with the present tax collections. The School Board is requesting that the people of the district grant them permission to collect this tax again for the 1965-66-67 tax years. School officials emphasize this will not result in a tax increase for the people of the district, but will be a continuation of the present tax rate for another three years.

The voted 3.5 mills accounts for about 61/2 per cent of the School's budget. It also allows the district to fully participate in the Michigan School Aid program which provides approximately $150,000 annually for school operation. In the face of rising school operation costs, it has been difficult to keep the district in a financially sound position.

University Budget

The current exchange between Governor Romney and University of Michigan President Hatcher over the State Budget Office's deletion of funds for start of a University of Michigan freshman class at Flint goes deeper into a serious question of state educational policy than the 250 young people in Flint who would be immediately affected next fall.

They could go to Flint Community College to get the work proposed by the U-M at Flint. U-M probably turns away more students every year from each of its colleges on the University campus at Ann Arbor. There is no educational tragedy brewing at Flint.

The basic question raised is not whether there is to be expansion of the Flint campus of the U-M, that is probably inevitable. It is whether the Michigan Legislature is to control the purse strings for higher education in Michigan, or whether the universities themselves are to determine the needs and send the state a bill

The University of Michigan is the state's oldest, proudest and finest institution of higher learning. Its growth should be encouraged. But it is not omniscient and its present stand of defiance toward the Governor and Legislature must cause concern in most friends of the university and of higher education in Michigan.

If the university ignores the present state system of cooperative control of state spending for higher education, the state is almost certain to impose authoritarian controls. The university is impressed with the size of the problem of providing higher education for Michigan and no doubt mindful, in a human way, that unless it proposes to provide a generous hunk of it, that its rivals, Michigan State University and Wayne State University and the state's other universities, will be quick to do it.

The Legislature and the Governor, who initiates the budget process, are mindful that the cost of higher education must be related to the ability and the willingness of the voters to pay for it. So the final reality of financing for the universities is always a compromise between what the universities say is needed, and what the Legislature says the people will pay.

Michigan educators don't want the system of higher education control by an all powerful central authority that prevails in California and in New York states, that in 1964 - a good year - public works programs in areas there is still not sufficient pro- by a propeller blade of a admiring him for a long time. but the U-M position, if it prevails, invites such a solu- about $5 billion, somewhat less of high unemployment. tion. are a small bobcat, a Canada lynx trapped on Sugar Island, and a whopping-sized bobcat. At a glance, most people probably would guess that the lynx and bobcat on the right weigh about the same, with the little bobcat being considerably lighter. Actually, the big-looking lynx and smaller bobcat each registered 12 pounds while the larger bobcat tipped the scales at 39 pounds when they were weighed recently at the Conservation Department's Cusino wildlife research station near Shingleton. Full grown, the average bobcat and lynx weigh 18-29 pounds. The long legs and thick fur of the lynx give it the appearance of being larger than it is. Besides its lankiness and bigger, heavilypadded feet, the lynx can usually be distinguished from the bobcat by the tufts on its ears which are more pronounced. The lynx, a rare relative of the bobcat in Michigan, shows signs of increasing and spreading its low numbers in the Upper Peninsula. In the photo above, Department game biologist El Harger of the Cusino station shows off the big head of the trophy bobcat.

Paper-Making Pollution Costly

pollution could become a billiondollar problem for the paper industry, an authority on stream improvement told paper executives Tuesday

"Whether we like it or not, said David C. Knowlton, chairman of the National Council for Stream Improvement, "the top management in this industry must put pollution abatement at the top of its agenda.'

Knowlton spoke at the council's annual meeting during paper week, the industry's 88th annual industrywide convention. Knowlton said the paper and pulp industry, to meet federal spending as much as $1 billion for stream improvement. Over the next 10 years this would mean an annual outlay of $100 million, compared with $15 million to $20 million today. The paper and pulp industry is one of the largest users of water: about 50,000 gallons per ton of product. The water is used for cooling as well as in the manufacturing process. All but 4 per cent of the water is returned to streams by producers but solids and chemicals picked up by the water have brought pollution problems.

late-evening program will be renamed "ABC's Nightlife." Host Crane will be replaced by a series of guest stars serving as temporary conversation leaders

The Crane show, roughly patterned on NBC's successful "Tonight Show" caused considerable comment, mostly because of Crane's determination to be provocative, often at the expense of his guest's sensibilities. The program, however, failed to attract a big audience.

Crane handled the approaching demise of his program with grace and wry humor, merely reading ABC's formal announcement. This included Vice President Edgar J. Sherick's appreciative nod to Crane for on about using the ex-disc jockey in future ABC programs.

Crane expressed his appreciation to his staff and to the network, made a little joke and got on with his program. It could have been an awkward few

Syrians Shot As Spies For U.S.

DAMASCUS (AP) - A naturalized American of Syrian origin and a Syrian army colonel were executed before dawn Tuesday on charges of spying for the United States.

The government announced that Col. Abdel Moeen Hakimi, 43, who served with Syria's coastal forces, died before a firing squad, Farhan Atassi, 37, who acquired U.S. citizenship after marrying an American girl was hanged in Al Marja Square in downtown Damascus.

They were convicted of being members of a spy ring headed by Walter Snowdon, second secretary of the U.S. Embassy. The U.S. government denied the espionage charge, but Snowdon and a clerical secretary at the embassy, Martha Scherrer, were expelled from Syria.

1. Card of Thanks

Palmquist

I wish to take this means of expressing my sincere appreciation for all the cards, flowers and gifts I received from friends and neighbors while I was a patient at St. Francis Hospital and since I have returned to my home. Your thoughtfulness has meant very much to me.

Mrs. Walter Palmquist

Burton

Thank you, most sincerely, friends, neighbors and relatives, who by your acts of kindness in the recent illness and untimely death of our dear, wife, mother and grandmother, Bernice V. Burton, helped to lighten our burden of sorrow. We especially thank the doctors, nurses and staff members of St. Francis Hospital for their untiring and devoted efforts. Thank you. Rev. Clifford DeVore, Mrs. Carl Wedell, the organist, Mrs. Ellis Movalson, soloist, and the fine ladies of the Gladstone Memorial Methodist Church who served the lunch. Thank you, pallbearers and all who sent food, flowers, spiritual bouquets, cards of sympathy, memorials and offered automobiles. Your efforts and kindness will be a treasured mem-
